

Wesleyan Graduate Review

The reestablished Wesleyan Graduate Review is a published, peer-reviewed journal that provides a forum for graduate students, professors and researchers in the field of education to express opinions and present research data and implications for educators at all levels. The Review is supported by both Wesleyan graduate student fees and budgetary considerations by the Graduate Studies in Education. One issue is published per year during the fall semester, and each graduate student enrolled at Wesleyan is entitled to the published issue. Additional issues may be purchased for $15 each. Graduate students in education are encouraged to write for publication as well as serve as editors for the journal.

Call for Papers

The editors of the Wesleyan Graduate Review are soliciting exceptional papers that express views, explore issues, and/or present research data that would enlighten educators locally, state-wide and nationally. Papers must be 1,000-5,000 words in length, typed in Microsoft Word format and submitted in both hard-copy format and on 3.5 floppy disks.

If accepted for publication, papers become the property of the Wesleyan Graduate Review. Unpublished papers will be returned to authors in a timely manner. Deadline date for submission is April 1. Please send a hard copy and 3.5 disc to Dr. Twyla Miranda, Director of Graduate Studies in Education, Texas Wesleyan University, 1201 Wesleyan, Fort Worth, Texas 76105.

Call for Editors

We are seeking graduate education students to serve as co-editors for the Wesleyan Graduate Review. Work will occur primarily in summer and fall terms. Qualifications include enrollment in the Graduate Studies in Education program at Texas Wesleyan University and strong reading and writing ability. Some experience in writing for publication and editing is preferred. A $500 stipend will be paid to each editor.

To Apply, please send an essay of interest and current vita to:

Dr. Twyla Miranda
Director of Graduate Studies in Education
Texas Wesleyan University
1201 Wesleyan Street
Fort Worth, Texas 76105